

Founded in 2012 by Managing Partner Jim Murphy and Vice President Anthony Macaluso, Belden Hill Partners' mission is to bring vision and clarity to the choices available to middle-market, closely held, family business owners so that they can have access to the same level of corporate finance and investment banking expertise that their larger, publicly-traded counterparts enjoy.

Armed with the appropriate consideration set of options, the principals of Belden Hill Partners shepherd clients through the execution of the best alternatives, including: the raising of debt and equity capital for growth, shareholder liquidity, shareholder and management buyouts, diversification or recapitalization. We also structure and execute mergers and acquisitions with both strategic, value-added partners, and financial investors.

We have a 30-year track record of guiding hundreds of closely held and family business owners, across numerous industries and generations, through the planning, analyzing and executing of corporate finance strategies that maximize value and shareholder/owner satisfaction.
